MEDIA MADNESS

We live in a world filled with advertising. Every time we open our computers or look at a billboard, someone is selling us something. The average person sees about 360 advertisements every day. Many of them are about food -foods that claim to be better tasting, low in carbs, high in fiber, whole grain, all natural, and now without high fructose corn syrup! How do we know what is healthy and what is not? Let's figure out the who, what, how and why behind our media. The best part?

You will have the chance to create your own media projects!
